"Take Courage, O Jerusalem..." Géza G. Xeravits, 2015-04-24 the volume researches Baruch chapters 4-5 in the following successive steps. The first step is a structural analysis of the three different units of the chapters, 4:5-29; 4:30-5:6; 5:7-9, during which the structure of the greater units (strophes, cantos) will be investigated, together with the structural relationship of these units with each other. After this, the biblical background of the passages is explored. The Scriptural passages that prove to be authoritative or influential for the author(s) of the Baruch passages give clues as to the particular interest and intention of the author(s). This step is supplemented by an inquiry into the tradition historical background of the prophetic psalms. Finally, I close this short monograph with some basic comments on several formative issues of Baruch 4:5-5:9. The book is written for the interest of scholars of Second Temple Judaism, biblical interpretation, and the effective history of Scripture.

Riddles at work in the early medieval tradition Megan Cavell, Jennifer Neville, 2020-03-13 Capitalising on developments in the field over the past decade, Riddles at work provides an up-to-date microcosm of research on the early medieval riddle tradition. The book presents a wide range of traditional and experimental methodologies. The contributors treat the riddles both as individual poems and as parts of a tradition, but, most importantly, they address Latin and Old English riddles side-by-side, bringing together texts that originally developed in conversation with each other but have often been separated by scholarship. Together, the chapters reveal that there is no single, right way to read these texts but rather a multitude of productive paths. This book will appeal to students and scholars of early medieval studies. It contains new as well as established voices, including Jonathan Wilcox, Mercedes Salvador-Bello and Jennifer Neville.

Complejidad e incertidumbre en la ciudad actual José Miguel Fernández Güell, 2022-12-01 Este libro se plantea tres objetivos principales. En primer lugar, pretende exponer de la manera más divulgativa posible, pero sin excluir la evaluación crítica, la evolución histórica tanto del pensamiento sistémico como de los estudios del futuro. Un segundo objetivo es plantear y presentar un modelo conceptual que explique el funcionamiento sistémico de la ciudad, para lo que se ha huido de los modelos cuantitativos repletos de algoritmos matemáticos. El fin de este modelo no es reproducir con precisión matemática las dinámicas urbanas, sino proporcionar un instrumento de trabajo o de juego –según se conciba– que permita esbozar con facilidad las situaciones cambiantes que experimenta la ciudad, así como determinar las implicaciones más relevantes de los cambios en sus sistemas funcionales. El tercer objetivo es acercar el pensamiento sistémico al mayor número de profesionales, estudiosos, alumnos y grupos de interés urbanos con el afán de informarles y concienciarles de la utilidad de afrontar los retos urbanos con mentalidad sistémica. Este trabajo se ha concebido en el ámbito académico, por lo que se ha realizado un esfuerzo por utilizar de manera coherente la terminología sistémica para analizar y debatir los conceptos centrales aquí tratados. El libro está organizado en dos grandes partes: una divulgativa y otra propositiva. La primera parte está dedicada a revisar las principales aportaciones realizadas al pensamiento sistémico y a los estudios del futuro, tanto a nivel general como en el ámbito urbano. En la segunda parte se analiza la utilidad de los modelos conceptuales para abordar e interpretar los sistemas complejos, concretamente las ciudades. La presentación corre a cargo del profesor Pablo Martín Ciriquián, catedrático de Urbanística y Ordenación del Territorio de la Universidad de Alicante.

Discorrelated Images Shane Denson, 2020-09-18 In Discorrelated Images Shane Denson examines how computer-generated digital images displace and transform the traditional spatial and temporal relationships that viewers had with conventional analog forms of cinema. Denson analyzes works ranging from the Transformers series and Blade Runner 2049 to videogames and multimedia installations to show how what he calls discorrelated images—images that do not correlate with the abilities and limits of human perception—produce new subjectivities, affects, and potentials for perception and action. Denson's theorization suggests that new media theory and its focus on technological development must now be inseparable from film and cinema theory. There's more at stake in understanding discorrelated images, Denson contends, than just a reshaping of cinema, the development of new technical imaging processes, and the evolution of film and media studies: discorrelated images herald a transformation of subjectivity itself and are essential to our ability to comprehend nonhuman agency.

Alternative Accountabilities in Global Politics Brent J. Steele, 2013-02-15 In fields such as politics, international relations, public administration and international law, there is a rapidly growing interest in the topic of 'accountability'. In this innovative new work, Steele shows how we might recognize how an alternative form of accountability in global politics has been present for some time, and that, furthermore, this form's continued presence remains one of the most politically powerful, if not endurable, possibilities for resistance in the near future. This book argues that the physical and visually shocking outcomes of violence found on the bodies of humans, as well as the buildings and landscapes which surround us, specifically the scars they leave behind, remain one of our most compelling forms of accountability. Steele develops the theoretical argument on scars and exteriority utilizing insights from several philosophical and theoretical resources including Hannah Arendt, Erving Goffmann, and Richard Rorty. The work examines scars and their effects through several illustrations, including the accounts of Emmett Till, Iranian protestor Neda Agha-Soltan, the Syrian boy Hamza al-Khateeb, the massacre in WWII and then memorializing throughout the 20th century of the Lidice children in the modern-day Czech Republic, the particular architecturally destructive outcomes of the 2008-9 Gaza War, the loss of the Twin Towers in New York, as well as a variety of violent scars found on the landscapes of Europe and Southeast Asia. Emphasizing the importance of the space and 'time' of scars, the book illustrates how an alternative form of accountability in the scar can be a useful, disruptive, spontaneous, but also creative practice to challenge the discourses of violence which remain with us today.
